

Tracy's Persian Tiles extended border

This pattern is adapted from Jane Crowfoot's original design for Persian Tiles. It assumes you already know the abbreviations. I always start with standing stitches and close with a hidden stitch. I have direct permission to publish this pattern from Janie Crowfoot as I am offering it for free and it does not include any instructions for the main pattern. Please keep in mind that I am a newbie to actually writing down my patterns. If you find any mistakes, please let me know. I did not count stitches until it came to the V stitches as I needed a specific amount to create the mini fans. In the chart you will see an odd symbol. I used a free program to produce it and I could not find a triple crochet 2 together!

Round 1 and 2 as original pattern from Jane Crowfoot.

Round 3: 3.5mm hook, Dc3tog, ch3, dc3tog in the corner. Dc3tog in the next 3 st. *Ch 3, dc3tog in the next 3 st until the corner. Dc3tog in the corner 3 st from rd 2.*

Note: this is my first real try with a free stitch diagram program. I could not for the life of me, fit that 3TR, ch2, 3TR into the diagram so it is off to the side. Those cone looking things are them!
